The Whitehall & Industry Group
connecting the sectors

Future Leaders Offerings

The Whitehall & Industry Group (WIG) enables cross-sector learning and helps to improve understanding of how the public, private and voluntary sectors can work better together.

As someone early on in your career from one of our member organisations you have access to a range of opportunities to share expertise, develop your talent and broaden your networks.

To find out more, visit www.wig.co.uk or speak to any of the WIG team on 020 7222 1166.

Get connected...

Each year we deliver a programme of over 100 events, more than 80 of which are free to members.

Our members tell us that it's the interaction within and between different business sectors and areas of government that they really value. As well as meeting inspiring people from across the sectors, WIG events offer opportunities for dialogue, consultation and the sharing of best practice. These aren't passive presentations but active sessions.

5,000+ people across the sectors engage in WIG activities annually

- WIG Graduate & High Potentials Network offers the opportunity to learn in a cross-sector group, hear from a range of speakers and network with peers.
- High-profile breakfast and evening briefings from Permanent Secretaries, Chief Executives and Political Editors.
- Inside Whitehall workshops for government departments to share their strategy and policies with business.
- Consultation workshops support formal government consultations and offer members the opportunity to input into government thinking.
- Workings of... series offering insights into Whitehall, the European Commission, and specific industry sectors.
- Briefings, workshops and round table discussions to share good practice through our networks, including HR, law, public procurement, finance and sustainability.
- Masterclasses and Learning Exchange Groups to look at strategic topics and share experiences on a common theme.

Experience life in another sector

Our Talent service offers a range of bespoke opportunities to help our members share skills, knowledge and expertise with other sectors.

You may be an individual looking to meet specific development objectives or contribute your skills, or an organisation wanting to tap into the experience and perspective of a high-calibre individual or organisation from another sector. In all cases, we pride ourselves on making the right match for individuals and their organisations.

30 years experience of effective cross-sector interchange

- Charity Next – run in partnership with The Prince's Charities Foundation, gives leaders and future leaders in the private and public sectors the opportunity to contribute their skills and enthusiasm to short-term posts in the voluntary sector.
- Attachments / Secondments – to allow individuals to bring their experience to a different sector in a professional role or for a specific project.
- Mentoring – builds one-to-one relationships across sectors to support the achievement of personal and business goals.
- Organisational Raids – cross-sector group visits enabling professionals from one organisation to 'raid' another in a different sector to obtain quick, first-hand experience of their approach to specific issues and challenges.

Develop and share your skills

We offer a highly stimulating cross-sector learning environment to leaders at all levels from the public, private and voluntary sectors.

With a practical emphasis throughout, delegates gain a wide range of leadership tools and insights and work in professionally-facilitated learning sets to share and resolve their leadership challenges. As well as our modular programmes for different levels, we have an expanding programme of one-day development seminars around specific themes, designed to enhance leadership capability and personal impact.
